

Entry Day for “Art as Community”

The Redwood Art Association has an efficient entry day process that keeps the line moving and makes entering easy.

We are all volunteers. As volunteers we do the tasks needed to make an exhibition happen. We prepare the gallery, register the art, keep accurate membership records, spot and hang the art, print and attach the gallery name cards, and sit at the desk to welcome gallery visitors and keep our gallery open. Without us, the RAA would not exist.

The Board of Directors wants to hear from you. Thanks to you who answered our Membership Survey. The conversation will continue at our Membership meeting on Sept. 9.

Members enjoy a Private Preview Reception with wine and finger food before the August Arts Alive! It was an opportunity to socialize and appreciate the beauty of our art and its diversity. Including our reception, the gallery had 312 visitors that evening.
